
Faith Brennan, PHD

Dr. Brennan is a post-doctoral fellow in the Popovich laboratory in the Department of Neuroscience. Dr. Brennan studies how neuro-immune interactions can be harnessed to modulate outcomes from spinal cord injury, with a particular interest in myeloid lineage cells. The goal of this work is to identify novel strategies to promote recovery from spinal cord injury and potentially other forms of acquired CNS injury.